

ACCENTS' TIPS AND TIDBITS 12-19-07

This e-letter, complete with images, can be viewed on the Newsletter page of our website: <http://www.accentsinc.com/>

Just after I send this message, I will unplug the cables to this helpful computer. It's time to take it in for a checkup as I do believe that it has gotten quite sick in the two years that I have been its caretaker. I just realized that there are two things in life we really should not be trusted to do without significant instruction... raise children and computers. I did a pretty decent job with my children, but they had the advantage of giving me verbal feedback in a language that I could understand. Such is not the case with this handy little machine. So, this will be my last email communication in 2007. When my computer is back and running like a new machine, I will be back in touch, keeping you informed of the changes Accents will be implementing in 2008. I wish each of you a very Merry Christmas, a happy Kwanzaa and a most happy (post) Chanukah. May your days off restore you to . . . peace and harmony ... gayle

Fred & I will be leaving on the 27th for another New Years cruise, flying to San Juan to board a ship to cruise the islands in the eastern Caribbean. The greatest part of cruising for me is that I am forced to relax. There is no possibility of deciding to just do a little work. Well, actually there could be if I took advantage of the internet access on the ship - but as long as I feel the cost is more than I am willing to pay I must find other activities to fill the hours. So it is truly an opportunity to get away and relax. Hopefully, we'll stay awake long enough to at least be able to participate in the New Year festivities about ship on the 29th! Then we'll be in a new port everyday, taking a tour of each island, and probably asleep by ten each evening. Angela will be filling in for us at the shops (both Galerie Severn and Accents)

Your life is an open book - your every action is read by others. Wouldn't you prefer it be an Inspirational manuscript rather than a Horror story!
