

News to "Accent" your stitches

March 13, 2008

After posting the new chart "Cancer Matters", I learned from the feedback that many stitchers are not aware of just how many charts are available with a cancer theme. They are usually charted in the Breast Cancer pinks because most stitchers are women, but the message of so many of the charts is generic. We have a variety of cancer charts and a couple of prints in the shop as shown in the photo on the right. The image at the left, "What Cancer Cannot Do", is a free chart, which I will be happy to send as a pdf attachment to anyone who sends an email asking for the chart. While cancer is a dreaded disease, what cancer can do is afford us the opportunity to learn about the things in life we most treasure and live each day focusing only on our blessings.

We each have the ability to refuse to give it power over our life! ....gayle

EVERYTHING YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT Q-SNAPS

Although Q-snaps are the "hoop" of choice for most of today's stitchers, are you aware that the sizes can be mixed and matched; that extenders are available to adapt an 11" length to a 14" length; that extenders are available to adapt a 17" length to a 20" length; that you can buy just a "pair of sides"; or that you can buy new clamps if your original ones become too loose.

The Z-frame (shown in last week's e-letter) as well as other K's Creations frames/stands come with a universal clamp that can hold Q-snaps. These stands are a great help when you need your hands free. [On a sad note, Kay Schulle, the founder of K's Creations, died last Tuesday. She had been fighting cancer for the last year. I will miss her and our endless conversations.]
