

News to "Accent" your stitches

April 29, 2008

A BOOKMARK STITCH-IN - TONIGHT APRIL 29 6PM-9PM

If you are stitching a bookmark for the Bookmark Challenge, tonight is the night that we'll be meeting in the shop to work on our bookmark(s). You can bring your own project or stitch the FREE from Handblessings "Got Carrots" bunny bookmark if you need a pattern. The design is stitched on perforated paper which I'll provide, but you will need to provide the floss (lavender, green, orange, light and dark tan for the bunny). The only requirement will be that you donate the finished bookmark to the challenge. Bring your stitching supplies: needle, thread, scissors, glasses, etc. I hope to see you tonight!

ACCENTS EMAIL INFORMATION

I have a very sick computer in the hospital and, although not sure what illness it actually has, I do know that it has lots of friends and a few strangers that visit its mail room and that it probably caught something from one of them. So when it returns from the hospital, it will be restricted from receiving forwarded emails and emails with a blank subject line. If you want to send me something, you'll have to copy and paste it into the body of your message and make sure that you include a subject line that I understand. I would also suggest that you copy and paste this message into an email to your friends, lest your lovable little computer catch the same malady as mine. PC doctors are just as expensive as medical specialists!
