

News to "Accent" your stitches

August 19, 2008

MARK THE DATE—SATURDAY, SEPT 20TH—1:00 TIL 3:00 SMALL PROJECT STITCH-ALONG

While stitching our broach this past Saturday, we had a wonderful time chatting and visiting. One stitcher asked in advance if she could bring her granddaughter. As we stitched and I watched her granddaughter, I realized that we need to offer more opportunities for moms, daughters and grandchildren (guys or gals) to sit together and just interact. If you want to share a closeness, or just learn more about what the next generation is doing, this is a perfect venue. The conversation just flows along. You'll learn something new about each other and you'll relate better for the experience. So I have decided to open each month's Small Project Stitch-Along to children. If they do not know how to stitch, we'll teach them. Next month we'll stitch the small leaf design, pictured above. The guidelines will be that the youngster be able to maintain schoolroom behavior during the two hours and that I know in advance so I can have a fabric and fiber available to accommodate the youngster's skill level.

REMEMBERING KATRINA 3 years later —STILL HOME!

Did you miss this chart? It was published in late 2005 by Lizzie Kate and all profits are donated to Hurricane Katrina relief. I suspect many stitchers across the country purchased the chart after Katrina, but it has become a staple here. We all know that we don't want to dwell on the devastation of Katrina, but likewise we all know that the emotional effects will forever be a part of our lives. Chart is in-stock in the shop or can be ordered online on the "Louisiana" page.

FALL, IN PIECES! A PUZZLING CHART

If you participated in the Funk & Weber Puzzle Challenge, Accents has a gift for you. Just let me know that you sent in your emailed answer to at least one of the puzzle clues and I'll note your name on the list. When you next come into the shop, Accents will present your "thank you for participating" gift. FYI: If you are interested in purchasing the new chart, or any other chart on the Funk & Weber website, let me know and I'll pick them up while I am at the tradeshow in September.
